

Editorial and Local.

Although times are quiet, there are no idle men in Cerrillos. Everybody appears to be working, and that is a good sign.

Stand by your town. It is the leaders against good, established enterprises, who are likely to do a town or community harm. Always have a good word to say for the advantages that exist, and upon the development of which so very much depends.

During the past three years the Rustler has circulated at its own expense thousands of extra copies containing good descriptive matter of south Santa Fe county—as well as thousands of circulars. Its editor, as the authorized correspondent of Eastern papers, has given Cerrillos and surroundings publications and circulation that would have cost any boom town thousands of dollars.

Investors by the score are laying back, awaiting the settlement of the great questions. Capital is ready to develop every hole in the ground in Colorado mineral sections. The same situation and even to a greater extent, will apply to New Mexico as soon as titles are considered safe. Greater because New Mexico's climatic advantages are much more favorable for all the year work.

Let the land court get settled down to business as soon as possible, and let it move its quarters to Santa Fe. In New Mexico lies most of its work and at Santa Fe it could have pleasant and commodious quarters, while it would be then in the center of its operative field. It is a mistake to have established its headquarters any other place than Santa Fe, and the mistake must soon be discovered.

What may be the general outcome of Cerrillos and her surrounding interests, of course cannot be foretold. That the town should have a future, there seems to be no question. Conflicting interests, however, and petty hatreds founded on political prejudices or even a worse basis, have and are regarding our local progress, and if not checked, may strand the brightest prospects of the town. Until men drop this baby play and learn to pull together for the common interests, great progress cannot be expected. Right here we will say that this paper is ready to make any acknowledgement? suffer any sacrifice it can stand, for the sake of harmonious work and general success.

The White Oaks Interpreter publishes the following:

CMD.

Our God, to whose sovereign will we humbly bow, has seen fit to call unto Himself our beloved son Ernest. He was our hope and pride, and we looked forward to the day when his good and generous heart and hands would lovingly close our eyes in that sleep that knows no awaking until the Lord our Savior claims His own.

Nevertheless, whilst sorrow wells up in our hearts over our loss, our gratitude towards the miners and citizens of White Oaks will never cease.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Inspired by the spirit of true manhood the miners of White Oaks, to a man, God bless them, did all that heroic men could do to save our son, and his partner, George Drake, from their terrible fate; to them our thanks are ever due.

To all our friends and neighbors who have helped and sympathized with us in our affliction, we thank you, and may God in His infinite love keep and spare you from such sorrow as is ours.

A LONG LINE.
It is 2714 miles from the City of Mexico to St. Louis. We have just put some superb Pullman palace sleepers on through line between those two cities, via El Paso and Burroton, which makes the entire distance without change.

Los Angeles to St. Louis is 2121 miles. Pullman tourist sleepers now run between those points via Albuquerque and Burroton, without change.

The Frisco Line, in connection with Santa Fe Route, is a favorite one to St. Louis and beyond.
